BOOM HUSTON FOR THE CABINET.

A Speech That is Regarded as Very Significant-The President-Elect Wants a Pure Ballot-Frank Hiscock Believed to ben Pilgrim Bearing Peace Offerings From New York's Fighting Factions-Speculations Indiana now comes to the front with a petition for place. The Hoosiers think that one of their favorite sons should hold a portfolio, and Huston would take the Postoffice or the Interior Department. General Harrison's speech to the veterans has created a stir, particularly that portion referring to a fair ballot. Frank Hiscock's coming is awaited with interest. Knowing ones claim that he has a peace offering from the New York bosses, but they also think that his mission will be fruitless.

INDIANAPOLIS, January 2.—The visit of the Hon. H. A. Davis, Chairman of the Republican Central Committee, of Lawrence county, to General Harrison, this afternoon, was of more than ordinary importance, as he carried with him for presentathe President-elect petitions and letters of recommendation which may have considerable weight in securing a Cabinet hesition for one of Indiana's distingushed citizens. Mr. Davis resides at Bedford, the county seat of Lawrence county, and on December 5, after consulting with the members of his County Committee, he sent out a private circular to each of other 91 Republican County Chairmen in Indiana, urging that "Indiana ought represented in President Har-Cabinet. Other States are their claims for such representation. Should we not be taking some action?" He then sets forth that Republicans of Lawrence county are strongly in favor of Senator James N. Huston, the Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, for a Cabinet position, and requests his brother chairmen to communicate their views on the subject to him.

ALL INDORSE HUSTON. As a result of his private circular, Mr. Davis came to the city to-day and accompanied by Dr. Joseph Gardner, he handed General Harrison 63 letters from as many county chairmen, some of them addressed to the General, and all cordially and voluntarily indorsing Chairman Huston for a Cabinet place, Many of the letters urged Mr. Huston's appointdiana. Others, however, suggested Mr. Huston for the Secretary of the Interior, while tully one half make no special designation of the Cabinet place they desire to see tendered to him. Mr. Davis also presented the request and recommendation of 14 additional county chairmen who had personally authorized him to act in the premises for them, making 77 counties thus far heard from out of 92. He states that not a single county chairman of those heard from was opposed to Huston or in favor of urging any other name. This is the first official act of the Republicans of Indiana toward securing Cabinet recognition.

A SPEECH THAT CAUSES TALK. The Grand Army veterans and many of General Harrison's civilian friends were regretting to-day that no authentic and acbrief speech last night was in existence. Those who heard the speech regard it as a very significant and important one, but the several versions of it that appeared in the press throughout the country this morning, whether pretending to quote his exact language or in the third person, were all compiled from memory. The meeting of the veterans was private. Only members of the post were admitted, and it is known that General Harrison regarded the meeting as a "family gathering," and had no expectation or desire that his remarks should be printed. The spirit of the speech was the subject of general approval and congratulations to-day in army circles, and with Republicans generally. By many it is regarded as a "keynote" to the attitude of the new administration toward the South. That is the interpretation they place upon his carnest language and in speaking of a free ballot and a fair count, especially that sentence which was about as follows: I would like to hear a bugle call throughout the land demanding a pure ballot. This is a matter above and beyond any question of partiannish, and I felt that I express the sentiment of every comrade present when I deciare that a free ballot honestly expressed and fairly counted is the main safeguard of our institutions, and its suppression under any pretext whatever cannot be tolerated.

HISCOCK A PEACE PILGRIM. The announcement through the Associated Press dispatches that Senator Hiscock was en route to Indianapolis caused a small commotion among the numerous correspondents. There is reason for believing that the first notices that the President-elect had of the forthcoming visit was through the press. Speculation is rife as to the special mission of the distinguished pilgrim. One of the apparently plausible explanations of the Senator's visit, made by a well-known local politician, is to the effect that certain New York statesmen have carried their dis-agreements so far that a rumor has reached them that unless they speedily harmonize they both stand in danger of being left out in the cold, and that Senator Hiscock has been designated by them as a peace mis-sionary, one who brings "tidings of great joy" and harmony.

The gentleman who puts forth this theory claims to have some good authority for it, and he points to the fact the Senator's visit follows swiftly upon the return of Russell Harrison from New York, who is believed to have formed some very decided views on the situation there. The inference is that Russell Harrison was seriously impressed that neither of the warring factions deserved special recognition, and that this alleged conclusion might be adopted by the President-elect. Hence the theory that Hiscock comes like a white-winged dove.

No matter what the article may be-our finest Elysian satinlined Overcoat, our best Suit, a fine Hat, pair of Shoes, pair of Pants. Dress Suit or what not-when the twentieth sale's check gets to the cashier a gong will ring and when the gong sounds some one gets the goods for nothing and that some one will be the party who makes the twentieth purchase.
